

Cranchi Sessantasette 67 ft

When people think of Italian boat builders, Cranchi Yachts is one of the brands at the top of everyone's list. Started by Giovanni Cranchi on the shore of Lake Como, Cranchi Yachts has grown into a capital company with a dealer network across six (6) continents and over fifty (50) countries. With over 150 years and counting (established in 1870), Cranchi is one of the premier boat builders in the world.

Part of the Cranchi flybridge range, the new model Sessantasette (the number 67 written in Italian) 67 ft has a sleek profile, splaying bow, and pronounced high and protective gunwale, giving the yacht a naval allure. This elegant boat is a work of art, a collaboration between the Cranchi Yachts research development department and Christian Grande, entrusted with artistic direction. The best Italian design and style are seen throughout but stand out the most in the saloon – a refined living area, elevated by furnishings that lend a strong personality. The saloon is part of an open space area that also includes the galley and wheelhouse, but the whole zone is elegantly divided by a spectacular backdrop that separates the lounge and dining room from the service areas

The lines and shape that characterize this yacht are emblematic, complementing and echoing each other throughout the various elements of the profile. One example is the line extending from the curve of the stern hatch to the part of the fly that juts out, or between the outline of the windows and the break in the centre of the bulwark. This break provides an elegant reduction in volume on the side of the yacht, from the gunwale to the stringer, enhancing the panoramic view from the large windows that surround the saloon. The dining room has an uninterrupted view of the sea, with nothing to obstruct natural light from flooding the internal space.

Following the experience gained with the Settantotto, the new Sessantasette also features extraordinary technology, including an advanced home automation system combined with entertainment devices and a wealth of hi-tech materials to make the yacht more enjoyable and comfortable. The boat can be powered by two (2) Volvo Penta D13 (1000 HP each) with IPS3 dual propeller pod drivers.

If there is a yacht that you want to fall in love with, this is it!
